Tony was a very lonely goat. He was often seen roaming around the mountains in search of a friend. One day, when he went to the river and saw a small goat in the water, he said joyfully, "Would you be my friend?"

The fishes in the river laughed aloud, "You silly goat, that's your reflection you're talking to!"

Tony was surprised and sad. The fishes continued laughing at him as they swam away.

While walking back home, tears welled up in his eyes and he thought, "I am so unlucky. I don't have any friends or siblings."

He walked past other animals. There were birds in the sky, mice in the grass and other goats in the mountains but they all ignored him.

As soon as he reached home, his father hugged him tightly and said, "Come with me. We have a surprise for you."

Tony went hurriedly to the backyard and saw a little white goat lying beside his mother. "Come and meet your new baby sister!" said his mother.

"I will never be lonely again!" Tony exclaimed happily.
