Once upon a time, there was an old man who lived with his three sons in a village. The three sons were hardworking but they quarrelled all the time. Years passed by and the old man fell sick. He told his sons to stay united but they did not listen to him. He decided to teach them a lesson.

The old man gave a bundle of ten sticks to each of them and asked them to break each stick into pieces. They broke each stick separately into pieces quickly. They started to argue among themselves over who had completed the task first and who would receive the biggest reward.

The old man said, "Now, I will give another bundle of ten sticks to you. You will have to break the sticks as a bundle, not as separate sticks." The sons tried to break the bundle of sticks but they failed to complete the task.

The old man explained that the single stick was easy to be broken into pieces but not when they were in a bundle. The sons finally understood their father's intention. From then on, they stayed united and worked together as a team.

One steamy day, Ant was feeling quite thirsty. He began to search for some water.

After walking around for some time, he found a river. To reach the river, he had to climb up a blade of grass. While making his way up, he slipped and fell into the water.

He could have drowned if not for Dove, who was on a nearby tree. Seeing that Ant was struggling in the water, Dove swiftly plucked off a leaf and dropped it into the water. Ant moved towards the leaf and climbed on it.

Soon, the leaf carried Ant safely to the river bank. At the same time, a hunter nearby was about to throw out his net towards Dove, hoping to trap her. Knowing what the hunter was about to do, Ant bit the hunter on the heel.

Feeling the pain, the hunter dropped his net. Without delay, Dove flew away to safety.
