During the holidays, Luke's mother took him to the mountains for a hiking trip. While hiking, Luke became impatient. "Mother, you're walking too slowly. I'm leaving without you!" he said and walked off.

Moments later, Luke tripped over a rock and fell to the ground. "You silly thing!" Luke raised his voice at the rock. Just then, the mountain echoed back, "You silly thing!"

Luke had never heard someone so rude before, so he replied, "How dare you!" Again, the mountain echoed back, "How dare you!" Luke was furious.

"Go away!" Luke finally bellowed. When he heard the same nasty words echoed back to him, he buried his head and wailed loudly.

Soon, he heard some footsteps and saw his mother coming from a distance. He ran as fast as he could and hugged her. In the softest tone, he said, "Mother, I'm so sorry for saying those hurtful words to you. I'll speak kindly next time."

Mother smiled.

The day finally came. The crowd was cheering loudly for Harry. Harry tried to ignore them as he walked onto the field. Harry caught sight of his best friend, Jim. Jim nodded to Harry and silently mouthed, "You can do it!"

Harry closed his eyes. He took in a deep breath and ran. Suddenly, Harry tripped over a pebble and fell. Harry knew that it was all over. He did not manage to jump over the horizontal bar. Harry's teacher, Mr Tan, patted his shoulder after helping him up. "You did your best, Harry. Try again next year."

When Harry reached the classroom, almost everyone began laughing at him. Harry crushed a piece of paper he was holding tightly in his hands. With every last bit of his strength, he hurled the ball of paper into the dustbin.

He wailed loudly. Everyone was shocked as he would not cry at the slightest thing. Then Jim broke the silence. "All of you should be ashamed of yourselves!"

The children regretted what they had done and apologised to Harry. Harry stopped crying and wiped his tears. Harry nodded happily when his friends promised to join him for his weekly high-jump practices.
