SECTION G: COMPREHENSION 1 (10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions 31 to 39.

The mantis shrimp (See image below) is one of the most fascinating and complex creatures in the animal kingdom. Just like crabs and lobsters, this animal is also known as a crustacean. It has some of the most colourful shells. As a result, it is very popular with hobbyists who keep them in aquariums.

Though the mantis shrimp is beautiful, it is also one of the deadliest animals in the sea. Unlike their lobster or crab cousins, mantis shrimps do not have claws that grab. Some mantis shrimps have spear-like claws, which they use to stab their prey like fish or sea worms. Others have club-like claws, which they use to smash hard-shelled prey like shellfish.

Besides its powerful claws, the mantis shrimp also has the most complex eyes in the animal kingdom. These eyes allow it to see and process what most humans or other animals cannot see. As such, it can detect its predators and avoid them easily. Scientists believe that the mantis shrimp's eyes can detect cancer cells in human. They have even created medical equipment based on how its eyes are designed.

SECTION H: COMPREHENSION 2 (10 marks)

Read the following passage carefully and answer questions 40 to 46.

In ancient China, there lived an artist named Zhong. From his childhood, the boy would draw in the sand beautiful and accurate drawings of scenes from daily life. However, his parents who were rice farmers, were too poor to send him to school.

When Zhong grew older, he worked with his parents in the same rice field. One morning, after Zhong had delivered a sack of rice to the rice merchant, the workers dropped the sack carelessly and rice spilled all over the floor of the shop. Afraid that they would be punished severely by the merchant for dirtying the rice, they quickly ran to get brooms to sweep up the rice. While waiting for the payment for his rice, Zhong picked up a stick and started drawing on the spilled rice.

When the workers returned, they saw him drawing on the spilled rice and were horrified. They started shouting at him and tried to hit him with their brooms. Their raised voices drew the attention of many onlookers. However, their gaze was soon drawn from the fight to the remarkable artwork on the floor.

Among the onlookers was the merchant himself, and he quickly ended the fight. He then pulled Zhong aside and asked, "Did you draw this?" Zhong nodded and humbly asked for his payment. The merchant gave Zhong a bag of coins which contained twice the cost of the rice. Zhong was shocked and said, "This is too much for the rice!"

The merchant replied, "It is The rest of the money is for the beautiful art you have created." Zhong smiled, and from that day on, he became so famous that he was asked to create many rice art pieces for emperors all over the world.
