PETS FOR LIFE

Consider Carefully

Before Getting A Pet

Should You Get A Pet?

Ask yourself these questions before getting a pet:

- Is everyone in your household able to accept this pet?
- Are you committed to taking care of it throughout its lifespan?
- Do you have enough time and money to take care of it?
- Will you be able to obey the laws governing pet ownership: cleaning up after your pet when in public and ensuring that your pet does not disturb others?

What Pet Should You Get?

Here are some tips when choosing a pet:

- Different pets require different levels of care. For example, dogs require a lot of time and attention whereas cats do not.
- The cost of caring for different types of pets varies. You can check with a pet store or ask existing pet owners for an estimation of the cost.
- Like humans, pets have their distinctive temperaments. Do your homework before committing to owning a pet.

MY PET RABBIT

My mother, wanting to surprise me on my birthday, bought me a rabbit recently. She was finally convinced that I would be able to take care of it. My rabbit, Sasa, is quiet and does not disturb me when I study. I put food in its feeding bowl and top up its water dispenser every day. I clean the litter box every week. Keeping Sasa has helped me realise how important it is to be a responsible pet owner. I hope my rabbit can be with me forever! I love my rabbit. It is like family to me!

A Guide for Pet Owners

1) Animals Approved as Pets

Not all animals can be kept as pets. Star tortoises, iguanas, snakes and sugar gliders are some animals which are not approved by the authorities to be kept as pets.

2) Dog Licensing

It is required by law that all dogs three months and older must be licensed.

Rabies is a disease caused by a virus. It can spread from infected dogs to humans through bites or saliva. Licensing a dog can help the authorities to trace dogs with rabies to control the spread of the disease.

Licensing a dog can help the authorities reunite a lost dog with its owners. It can also help to discourage pet abandonment.

3) Cruelty to Animals

As a pet owner, you should not subject your pets to cruelty or permit cruelty to be inflicted on them.

Forms of cruelty to animals include:

- Brutally beating, kicking, torturing, provoking or terrifying an animal
- Failing to supply an animal with sufficient food and water
- Abandoning your pet as they are unable to take care of themselves. They may get into accidents and/or become ill

4) Dog Leashing

All dogs have to be leashed in public areas. In addition to leashing, some species of dogs must be muzzled by law.

21 The purpose of the questions in the section "Should you Get a Pet?" is _____.

(1) to arouse readers' interest in getting a pet
(2) to tell readers to consider carefully prior to getting a pet
(3) to give readers some ideas what would make a suitable pet
(4) to help readers understand the benefit of owning a pet for life

22 Based on the brochure, which of the following is true?

(1) Star tortoises cannot be kept as pets.
(2) All dogs must be muzzled by law when in public.
(3) Cats require as much time and attention as dogs.
(4) Puppies must be licensed within three weeks of birth.

23 Refer to the section "My Pet Rabbit" on page 8. Which of the following words describes how Lulu feels about keeping a rabbit?

(1) responsible
(2) convinced
(3) surprised
(4) loving

24 Some of the information in the brochure are facts, while others are opinions. Which of the following is an opinion?

(1) Rabies is a contagious disease.
(2) All dogs must be leashed in public areas.
(3) Abandoned pets may become injured or ill.
(4) A pet is like a family member to the pet owner.

25 The main purpose of this brochure is to _____.

(1) convince the reader not to be cruel to animals
(2) inform the public about the importance of dog licensing
(3) allow Lulu to share about her experience as a pet owner
(4) raise awareness of the responsibilities of being a pet owner .

(Go on to the next page)

Downloaded from SingaKids.com

26 Look at the section on Dog Licensing on page 9. What does 'it' in the second line of the third paragraph refer to?

(1) a lost dog
(2) licensing a dog
(3) pet abandonment
(4) the owner of a lost dog

27 Which of the following statements is not a reason for dog licensing?

(1) to find the dog owners when dogs are lost
(2) to prevent infected dogs from biting humans
(3) to trace the dog owners when dogs are abandoned
(4) to contact owners in order to control the spread of rabies

28 The use of colon (:) in "Forms of cruelty to animals include: " (page 9) is to _____.

(1) stress the importance of supplying pets with sufficient food and water
(2) emphasise that animal cruelty should be discouraged
(3) show the order of the severity of animal cruelty
(4) list the different forms of animal cruelty

Read this passage and answer questions 71 to 80. (20 marks)

Two weeks after Grandfather died, Grandmother came to live with us. I would try to joke with her and make her laugh like she used to, but she would just nod sadly and continued rocking in her rocking chair.

One day, I noticed Grandmother looking out the window. I stood up, stretched my cramped legs and walked over to her. "What are you looking at, Grandmother?" I asked.

Grandmother stared at me, as if seeing me for the first time in the weeks since she had moved in. I pointed to her lap. "Why do you keep that red bag with you?"

Grandmother fingered the bright velvet lovingly. "Everything I've ever learnt is in this bag," she said. Grandmother took a strand of large, silvery-white pearls from it.

"It's beautiful!" I gasped. Leaning closer, I realised the huge pearls were strung on a slender length of leather.

"My grandmother gave this to my mother, who gave it to me." Her eyes glistened. "I remember it like it was yesterday. She gave me this leather strap, with one pearl strung on it. She called it a pearl of wisdom. She gave it to me for befriending two unpopular and shy girls. Even though that caused me to lose my other friends for a while, I knew that I had done the right thing. Ever since then, she would give me a pearl to string each time she felt I'd done something special, learnt some kind of lesson, or had done something she felt was wise."

"So, every pearl is a pearl of wisdom," I whispered, running my hand over them.

"Your grandfather gave me the last one, on our fiftieth wedding anniversary, because he said marrying him was the wisest thing I'd ever done." We both laughed.

Grandmother died later that year. After the funeral, my mother gave me Grandmother's red velvet pouch with a note written in her signature crooked scrawl. "I should have given these to your mother a long time ago, but I always felt like I still had things to learn. Though your mother missed out on the tradition, I hope that you will keep it alive. Keep the pearls safe."

Angry that Grandmother had left us, I stuffed the pouch with its contents into the very back of my dresser's bottom drawer. "All the wisdom in the world didn't keep you from dying," I thought, wiping my tears away. I could not contain my grief.

Three years later, I was fourteen. The last thing I wanted was to start high school with hideously thick glasses. I wanted contact lenses, but my parents could not afford them.

Taking on many part time jobs, I finally earned enough to buy them.

That day, I was proud of myself for working for what I wanted when I could have easily wallowed in self-pity.

I took off the hated glasses and stuffed them in the very back of my bottom dresser drawer, and there was Grandmother's pouch. Smiling, I took out the string of pearls. I untied the leather strap and let all the pearls, except one, fall into the pouch. I had been wise, I learnt my first lesson.
