"Brainy Games" Festival

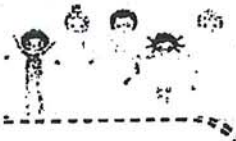

at Bartley Community Centre on 15 November 2020, Sunday, 9 am – 3pm

Come and join us for a day filled with a variety of exciting and interactive games that stretch your minds. Stand a chance to walk away with attractive prizes sponsored by Kids Technology Company.

Do you know that games can 'exercise' your brains? Lots of research has shown the benefits of brain games for children. When children engage in brain teaser games such as Scrabble, Sudoku and Chess, it strengthens their problem-solving skills, train their memories and help improve their concentration spans. Children's brains are growing at a rapid rate. The younger they are, the easier they learn. So what are you waiting for? Come join us at this festival!

What our visitors said about our event.

"Brainy Games" is an excellent option for children who enjoy mind-stretching games and want to meet like-minded children! As a mother of three highly curious children, I recommend "Brainy Games". My children enjoyed playing the various mind-stretching games, especially Sudoku, where they were given opportunities to play against skilled professionals. The Chess competition was another favourite – my children tried out new strategies in this game. Most of all, they enjoyed making new friends! "Brainy Games" far exceeded my expectations! The three of them are eager and excited to join "Brainy Games" again next year!

~Mrs Cheryl Lim (Parent)

I never knew that I would give up my gadgets for anything else until I came across "Brainy Games" last year! By participating in the event, I got to know the various types of brainy games. I also made new friends and we still meet regularly to challenge each other. Playing the games regularly has helped me sharpen my thinking skills and improve my memory. Most importantly, I no longer spend so much time on my mobile phone.

Read this passage and answer the questions 71 to 80. (20 marks)

Uncle Lum, who was in his sixties, had retired from his job as a teacher a few years ago. With lots of time on his hands, he slowly sipped his cup of coffee and read the newspapers. It had become his morning routine at the coffee shop since retirement. "An active mind will help in my game of chess later," he muttered to himself. He took a glance at his watch and cheered, "Yes, it is time for my chess game." He would meet his old friend, Mr Gopal, for a game of chess at the void deck of his block of flats. They were evenly matched at the game, but Uncle Lum wanted badly to win the chess game that day, having lost to Mr Gopal twice that week.

Uncle Lum and Mr Gopal were a familiar sight at the void deck. Mr Gopal arrived on the dot and greeted his buddy with a hearty laughter. Usually, the void deck was quiet, but that day they had the nine-year-old twins, Kai Kai and Jia Jia, for company. Their mother had left them there when she went to the market. The twins were kicking a ball around and having a whale of a time. The noise did not bother Uncle Lum much, as he was used to having big classes of noisy students when he was a teacher. However, Mr Gopal shook his head, directing his friend's attention to the sign that read "No Ball Games Here". He thought, "How could I concentrate on the game with all that noise?" He furrowed his brows in a bid to focus harder.

That morning's chess game was special. Mr Gopal's wife had made milk tea and muffins, which he brought to share with his buddy. The game had reached a critical point. Mr Gopal pondered for a long while, afraid that he could lose the game if he made a wrong move. Uncle Lum could not help but curl his lips in a smile. He would taste victory soon. With that pleasant thought, he reached for the aromatic hot tea and took a sip. All of a sudden, a flying object hit his face, nearly knocking him off his seat. His shirt was soaked with tea. With his spectacles also hanging crookedly, he was a mess. Mr Gopal quickly rushed over and helped his friend put on his spectacles. There were cracks in them, but Uncle Lum could still peer through the glass. The culprits stood before him, whimpering in fear. Kai Kai bent down and picked up the offending item. Uncle Lum soon figured out what had happened.

"You should have known better than to play with a ball at the void deck. Look at what you did to my spectacles! You are in deep trouble now, young men!" Uncle Lum spoke sternly, as he rubbed his sore face. Kai Kai quickly hid the ball behind his back, pretending that it had vanished.

Uncle Lum was appalled by Kai Kai's action. Then he could not help but chuckle at his funny action. Jia Jia tugged at his his twin's shirt sleeve and said, "We have to apologise to Uncle Lum." At that moment, they saw the twins' mother hurrying over. "What happened?" she asked frantically. Mr Gopal then recounted what had happened to her. She wanted to pay for a new pair of spectacles but Uncle Lum turned down her offer politely, as he felt he was partly at fault for not stopping the twins from playing there from the start. This prompted the twins to recall what Uncle Lum had said earlier. Realising their mistake, the twins were overcome with guilt for causing the damage. In between sobs, they kept apologising to Uncle Lum. They only stopped crying when Uncle Lum comforted them and Mr Gopal held out two muffins. The twins each took one and happily started munching.

Watching the twins leave with their mother, Uncle Lum felt glad, especially about the change in Kai Kai's behaviour. He could not wait to return to the chess game. "Phew!" Uncle Lum let out a sigh of relief. It was a good thing that the ball had not messed up the chess pieces. He was certain he would be victorious that day.
