Section C: Comprehension (10 marks)
Read the passage below and answer questions 11 – 18.

There were two frogs living in a pond on a farm. Jelly was lazy, napping and daydreaming on the lily pad all day. On the other hand, Hopscotch loved exploring the farm.

One day, Hopscotch managed to talk Jelly into leaving the pond in search of adventure. At the barn, they found a pail. Both were curious and hopped up onto the edge and found that it was half-filled with a white liquid.

"Is this white water?" Jelly asked.

"Let's find out," Hopscotch suggested. They jumped in with a splash.

Surprisingly, the liquid was slippery and thick like soup. Panic-stricken, the frogs kicked and thrashed about, trying to get out. Alas, they were trapped. Jelly gave up quickly and just floated about with her eyes closed.

"I may not make it out of here alive, but I will keep kicking till I can kick no more," Hopscotch decided. She continued to kick hard until she was so exhausted that she could not kick anymore. Just then, she realised that she was lying on a big yellow ball. Hopscotch had kicked so hard for so long that the milk had been churned into butter.

The frogs stood on the firm surface of the butter and leaped out of the pail happily.

"Thank you. Because you didn't give up, you saved our lives," Jelly muttered, ashamed.
