Pangolins, also known as scaly anteaters, are native to Asia and Africa. Demand has increased so drastically (16) in recent decades that the pangolin is thought to be the world's most-trafficked mammal. Authorities in Malaysia made the biggest pangolin trafficking raid that the country has ever seen. The police seized (17) more than 30 tonnes of pangolin products from a warehouse and a factory on the island of Borneo. They estimated the loot (18) to be worth at least $2 million.

The creature's scales are highly prized (19). They are made into powder and used as medicine, even though there is no scientific evidence (20) of its effectiveness. In some Asian countries, pangolin meat is even considered to be a delicacy.

Celebrating the reopening of the House of Tortoises and Turtles

Opening hours: 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily

The tortoises and turtles are finally ready to greet their visitors in their new home after a closure of six months. A Guinness World Record holder for the largest collection of tortoises and turtles, the attraction is home to more than 500 reptiles.

Entrance Fees

Adult: $10
Children (under 12 years old): $5
Family Value Package
(2 adults + 2 children): $25

savings of $5 !

About Us

The attraction was initially a platform for the owners, Jane and her father, to share their collection of turtles and tortoises with the public. Their collection includes the mysterious River Turtle and the Radiated Tortoise. Beyond admiring a collection of rare reptiles, a fruitful time of learning is guaranteed as you explore together with one of our guides or even on your own.

Guided Tours

Suitable for the young & old!
Weekends 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.
Adult: $6
Children (under 12 years old): Complimentary

Reopening Specials

Win free tickets to the House of Tortoises and Turtles when you do two of the following:

- Like our Facebook page
- Tag five friends on our Instagram page
- Leave a comment on our Facebook page on why you deserve to win.

Visitors will get a free packet of turtle food for every sign-up for the guided tour.

In additional to our regular activities, we are back with a bang!

Win a small token!

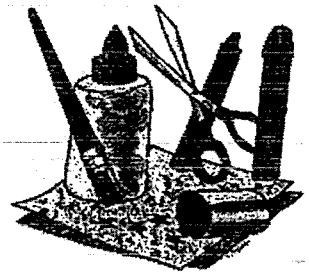

Turtle Race

Suitable for children from 4 to 12 years old, select a terrapin and watch it compete with its friends. Races take place twice a day during the weekends at 11 a.m. and 4 p.m.

A small donation of at least $2 will be required for the participation of this event. Kindly sign up upon arrival to avoid disappointment.

Decorate with Ellie!

Our gentle tortoise, Ellie, comes out to play twice a day at 3 p.m. and 5 p.m.

For children under 12 who have a keen interest in art, you can take a photo with Ellie and customise your photo frame with the materials provided. Then, frame it on the spot and bring it home!

Adopt a Terrapin

We have put terrapins up for adoption! Do consider the following factors before you approach any of our staff to ask about our adoption programme.

If you meet all the requirements, you may want to adopt one of our terrapins. Our guides will share how to provide love and care for them so that they can live comfortably.

Factors to consider for adoption

- [x] Are you ready for a long-term commitment?
- [ ] Can you afford to care
- [ ] Do you have time for it?

Volunteer with Us!

Can't get enough of our turtles and tortoises after your visit? Join our team of guides to showcase these lovely reptiles to other visitors. Besides showing the visitors around, you can get a chance to be a reptile caregiver and can be involved in activities such as feeding, bathing and cleaning their homes.

One afternoon, Jenny was walking home from school when she heard a loud chirping sound. She wondered where the sound was from and discovered it was coming from an empty trash can on the kerb. Curious, she walked over to it and peered inside. A little sparrow was sitting at the bottom of the trash can, chirping its heart out. Its right wing stuck out from its body at a strange angle. Reaching in, she cupped the bird in her hands and lifted it out. The bird was terrified. She then cooed to it, so it would not be scared. A few gentle strokes on the head later, the bird's initial frantic flapping stopped and it rested contentedly in Jenny's hand. Jenny decided to bring it home and ask her mother for permission to keep it. The sparrow chirped all the way to her house, its little fuzzy head poking through Jenny's fingers.

Without really looking at the bird, Jenny's mother said "No way! I am not having an animal in the house." However, once she had a closer look at those big, sad eyes, she changed her mind. Jenny was counting on that. Her mother gently set the sparrow on the kitchen table to get a better look at it. Its right wing was definitely broken, so Jenny's mother designed a splint out of an ice-cream stick and carefully taped it to its wing. Once the splint was on, Jenny fed the bird water and gave it bits of bread. At first, it would not eat, but then after a while, it would not stop.

The little bird was given the name "Peep". Jenny kept it in an old hamster cage, the former home of Pepper, the hamster, which had recently passed away from old age. Every night, she put a towel over the cage, and Peep went right to sleep Every morning, she put its cage outside and opened the door so it could wander around and get some fresh air. Peep could not fly, which seemed to frustrate it. It was also not used to walking everywhere.

Soon, Peep's wing got better, and Jenny's mother said it was probably time to take off the splint. Jenny watched anxiously as they put Peep on the kitchen table, and her mother cut off most of the splint with a pair of scissors. She could not remove all of it. There were also bits of white tape stuck to Peep's wing, but it did not seem to mind. It started flapping its wing enthusiastically, and the next morning when she opened the cage door, it flew a few metres into the air before coming back. Jenny watched from the ground like a proud parent. From then on, Peep flew a bit further each morning, but it always came back shortly after

Two weeks later, when Jenny let Peep out of its cage, it just kept flying. She left the cage outside with the door open, but it never came home at all that day. As it became dark, she faced the reality that Peep would never come back Her mother said it had probably found some other sparrows and decided it was time to be with them. Jenny's eyes brimmed with tears and she was devastated. She missed Peep a lot.

A few months later, Jenny was walking home from school, and a sparrow landed on a low tree branch just ahead of where she was walking. It did not fly away when she went near it. The bird had little bits of white tape stuck to its right wing! It was Peep! It sat on the branch chirping at Jenny for a couple of seconds, and then it flew off. She watched it join a little flock of sparrows and disappear into the sky with them. Jenny decided that she was not imagining things. Peep had come to say a proper goodbye and to thank her for saving its life.
