Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Mr Sun was a wise village chief Many people approached him whenever there was a disagreement. One day, Mr Sun was asked to solve a problem.

A young man had accidentally dropped a heavy box on a chicken, crushing it to death. The chicken was small, worth only five coins but the poultry shop owner was very angry. He grabbed the young man by the collar and demanded a hundred coins, more than what the chicken was worth.

"What do you think, Mr Sun?" asked the poultry shop owner. He pointed at the young man and shouted, "This man killed my chicken. If the chicken were alive, it would have fetched me a hundred coins in two years!"

"Yes, your chicken will be worth one hundred coins!" agreed Mr Sun. The poultry shop owner grinned to himself.

Everyone gasped. They had not expected Mr Sun to agree with the poultry shop owner. Then Mr Sun asked the joyous man how much grain a healthy chicken would eat in a year. When he told Mr Sun that it was half a sack of grain, Mr Sun said, "So, in two years, the chicken would have eaten a whole sack of grain if it were alive. Please give the sack of grain you've saved to this young man."

The poultry shop owner turned pale. A sack of grain would cost more than a hundred coins. Immediately, he said that he would not take any money from the young man. When the villagers jeered at the shop owner, he quickly retreated into his shop.

If he did not obey Marie, she would tell their grandparents about it. Without saying a word, he washed the dishes. Later that day, Grandfather invited the children to go fishing but Grandmother said, "I'm sorry but I need Marie to help me prepare dinner." Marie just smiled and said, "Ben told me he wanted to help you."

Ben was reluctant to stay behind to help but he kept quiet and nodded. Meanwhile, Marie happily skipped off with Grandfather. After a few days of being taken advantage of by his sister, Ben could not stand it any longer. He finally confessed that he had broken Grandmother's clay figure.

Grandmother said, "Sweetheart, I know. I saw the whole thing that day. I'm proud of you for telling the truth so I forgive you."

Ben smiled. He was relieved that he could finally enjoy the rest of his school holidays.
