Section F: Comprehension (8 marks)
Read the following text carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Dr Remus adjusted his binoculars and scanned the snow valley. He had been trailing the wolf pack for weeks. The pack was made up of Wolf Beta, Lut and five other members. The leader was Wolf Beta, the strongest and most experienced wolf.

For the first two weeks, Dr Remus observed that Lut behaved like the other five members of the pack. He was obedient and diligent in tracking down prey. However, he had been aggressive lately. He challenged Wolf Beta's instructions and wanted to do things his way. After a week, Lut tried to be the leader.

Fangs barring, both wolves wrestled and tumbled in the snow. Wolf Beta was clearly the better fighter as he easily pushed Lut down, who rolled onto his back. Wolf Beta circled him, snarling. Then, he let the beaten wolf get up.

Lut realised that Wolf Beta was indeed a respectable wolf, so he decided to accept defeat and joined the others when it was time to hunt.

Later that week, Dr Remus moved closer to the pack and sat directly in the path of Wolf Beta. Initially, the big wolf avoided him. When Dr Remus rolled onto his back, the fierce wolf came up and sniffed his boots. However, up close, Wolf Beta looked more like a giant dog than anything else.

Section G: Comprehension Open-Ended (10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

In 1932, the Olympic Games was held in Los Angeles. One of the highly-anticipated races was the 3000-metre obstacles race. An athlete, Volmari, was hoping to break the world record. He was leading from the very first lap. Lap after lap, he was on track for the record. The crowd became increasingly excited and roared him on. Encouraged by the loud and wild cheers, Volmari gave his best shot.

When Volmari was in the last lap, he glanced at the official expectantly, waiting for the signal that this was the final lap. However, the official did not ring the bell. Volmari became unsure about how many laps remained. The crowd was confused too and the shouting gave way to angry mutterings.

After another lap, the official rang the bell to signal to the runners that they had one more lap to complete. Volmari sped up and eventually won the race.

Unfortunately, Volmari did not manage to break the world record. He had never expected himself to set the worst winning record in the Olympics for this event. In fact, looking at the record, it might seem like Volmari and the other competitors were the slowest ever for an Olympic 3000-metre obstacles race. He was disappointed despite finishing first.

It was later discovered that the official in charge of counting the laps was inexperienced. To make matters worse, he admitted that he was distracted during his duty as he was a last-minute replacement.
