Section E (10 marks)

Read this passage and answer Questions 27 to 32.

Best friends, Anna and Betty, were at camp. They were about to leave their room for breakfast, when suddenly, Anna gave a bloodcurdling shriek. Betty raced to her side. "What's wrong, Anna?" she asked in alarm.

Trembling, Anna mouthed the word. "Spider!" Betty jumped back in fright. Just then, camp instructor Clare entered the girls' room. Upon seeing her, the two girls told her about the spider sighting.

Clare calmly asked, "Where? Where did you see it?" Anna pointed to a dusty corner of the ceiling.

"I bet it is scared of you, too!" Clare joked. Unfortunately, both the girls were too nervous to laugh.

Anna clutched Betty's sweaty palm, breathing hard, saying, "It is so big!"

"Will it bite us?" Betty asked hesitantly.

Clare answered confidently, "No, it won't. It's probably here because of the weather. Look outside! It's pouring out there while your room is warm and dry." Betty heaved a sigh of relief. Clare continued to explain that the spider which Anna saw was a common harmless house spider. It mostly minded its own business.

Suddenly, Anna screamed again. "There it is! I see it!" She backed up so fast that she bumped into the wall behind her. There, just behind the door, was their unwanted visitor.

Out of nowhere, Betty appeared with a broom in her hand, ready to attack the spider. Clare instinctively held her back and took the broom away. Then, Clare gently scooped the spider up into a small pail. She beckoned the girls to follow her. "Since the rain has stopped, let's release it into the garden," suggested Clare. The girls nodded in agreement as they observed Clare in admiration. They learnt that it was important to respect nature.
