Section G: Comprehension (Selected Response)

Read this passage carefully and answer the questions 33 to 39. [8 marks]

One morning at school, Raja's teacher, Mrs Ho, said that the class was going to work on a community service project. Mrs Ho asked the class if anyone had any ideas for their service project to help others in the community.

Raja's hand shot up into the air. "The children's home where my mother works needs books," Raja explained. "Everyone here has books that they've outgrown. Why don't we give the ones we've already read to children who need them? I'm sure we have books that are new or almost new," he urged.

Mrs Ho and Raja's classmates thought it was a great idea. They also believed that it was important to inculcate the good habit of reading in children. Thus, Raja and his classmates organised a book drive to collect new or slightly new books that would interest young people.

After two months, Raja and his classmates collected 847 books. Apart from that, their families also donated money to buy shelves, tables and chairs. Soon, their community service project became so successful that they were able to set up a library in the children's home.

From the community service project, Raja and his classmates learnt that an act of kindness, no matter how small, is never wasted.

Gathered at the field, a group of excited children was getting ready for a friendly game of softball. Alex, who recently moved to the neighbourhood, was eager to join in the fun. Seeing the others practise swinging their bats and catching balls with ease, his interest in the game grew. He had never played softball before but he decided to give it a try.

When the game began, Alex took his position on the field. It started uneventfully for Alex. In the fourth round, however, an opponent hit a high ball that sailed straight towards him. The other children shouted, "It's yours, Alex! Catch it!" Startled, Alex tried to catch it. With shaky hands, he reached for it but failed. It slipped through his fingers and fell to the ground.

Alex turned red with embarrassment. However, his teammates encouraged him to keep trying. Although he began to doubt himself, he was determined to redeem himself. He decided to focus on the coach's instructions and practise his throws during the break. Soon, he became more confident and better at the game.

Before long, it was the final round. The score was a tie. It was Alex's turn to bat. Stepping up to his position, his heart pounded with nervousness. When his opponent threw the ball, Alex swung the bat with all his might. To his amazement, the ball soared through the air - he had hit a grand slam!

Loud cheers filled the air. Alex's teammates lifted him on their shoulders in celebration. Even the opposing team applauded his incredible hit. He had gone from being a failure to the hero of the game.
