Section C: Comprehension (10 marks)

Read this passage carefully and answer questions 17 to 24.

An ant was searching for some water on a hot and humid day. After crawling around for hours, it came to a lake. The ant stood dangerously at the edge of the lake, trying to get a sip of water. However, a strong wind suddenly blew, causing the ant to lose its balance and it fell into the lake.

The ant yelled as loudly as it could, "Please! Can somebody help me?" A bird perched on a nearby tree heard the drowning ant's cries. Without hesitation, the bird plucked a leaf with its beak and dropped it into the water near the ant. The ant struggled towards the leaf and climbed to safety. Soon, the leaf drifted to the shore and the ant jumped off it.

Just before the ant could thank the bird for saving its life, a man came along. He was about to cast his net to trap the bird when the ant quickly bit him on the ankle. Feeling the pain, the man dropped the net and clutched his ankle. The bird took the opportunity to fly away. The two animals became best friends after that day.
