Reading Comprehension

Read the passage below and answer questions 17 to 23 based on the passage.

"Why don't we go for this holiday adventure camp?" Sandra asked as she pointed at the poster on the wall. Tom nodded and they signed up for it immediately. After studying so hard, they thought that it would be a good way to relax. They also wanted to pick up some survival skills that would prepare them for their year-end trekking.

The camp would be held at East Coast Park. There were some activities that Tom and Sandra could choose from. Tom suggested canoeing since they had not done any water sport before. Sandra disagreed as she was not a good swimmer. She was more interested in going on a night hike but Tom was scared of the dark. After much discussion, they both agreed on taking part in a treasure hunt.

Tom and Sandra were given a packing list which stated some items like clothes, food and sleeping bags. Tom added that they should pack a map and a compass for the treasure hunt. However, Sandra reminded him that those would be provided by the camp organiser. He then advised Sandra to bring mosquito repellent and sunblock. The packing process was tedious but necessary as they tried to fit everything into their backpacks. Finally, they were ready for the camp.

Section G (10 marks) Reading Comprehension

Read the passage below and answer questions 36 to 41.

Three hens living in the palace garden were arguing. "Look at my fabulous feathers. I'm the prettiest!" claimed Dotty.

However, Stalky flashed her long legs and said, "But I have the most gorgeous legs." Plum, with the cutest crown, was unwilling to give in. Hence, they decided to seek the king's opinion.

"What you can do is more important than what you look like," explained the wise king. He then led the hens out of their cage for a competition. "The one who lays the most magnificent egg will be the winner," he announced.

Dotty smoothed her feathers haughtily. With ease, she settled herself on the grass. A while later, she clucked, stood up and stepped aside. The king was speechless. There lay an egg, spotless and perfectly shaped. "This is the most perfect egg I have ever seen!" cried the king. Dotty puffed up her chest and beamed with pride.

It was Stalky's turn next. After ten minutes, she too clucked, got up and stretched her legs proudly. The king clapped his hands with joy and exclaimed, "This is the best oval-shaped egg I have ever seen!" Stalky was delighted but felt sorry for Plum. Would she be able to lay a more perfect or better egg?

Calmly, Plum sat down. With only a small cackle, she got up to reveal an egg shaped like a box! Each side of the egg was straight, as if drawn with a ruler. The king was astounded and perplexed. "What an amazing egg!" he praised. Plum heaved a sigh of relief.

After much consideration, the king gave his verdict – all three hens were beautiful in their own ways. Dotty was livid. She strutted away indignantly while Stalky and Plum congratulated each other.
