Section F: Comprehension (8 marks)

Read the following text carefully and answer the questions that follow.

We got to a clearing, shivering from the cold. I heard a noise before I spotted the stream. It sounded like waves crashing onto the shore. The sound filled the quiet air, but when we got closer, our excitement disappeared. It was much wider than we expected. It was more like a river than a small stream we had imagined.

"I can't jump over that," Kenny said, staring at the water. I looked carefully. There were small waterfalls, but the deeper parts looked too dangerous to cross, especially in the freezing water.

"You're right and it's too cold to swim across. We'll have to go around it," I said, pulling out a crumpled map from my pocket. It was soaked and smudged, making it hard to read. I peered closely at the map and found a road with a bigger bridge a distance away. It was our only option. I showed it to Kenny, but he was too cold to focus and just wanted to leave.

I put my arms around him, giving his shoulder a gentle squeeze to encourage him before we continued walking. After a while, I felt relieved when I spotted a trail ahead. It was a path made by people who had come this way before us.

1 "I am so happy that I made it!" Grandmother said to us enthusiastically through the video call. "It was everything I dreamt of and more! Amelia, where are you?" she asked. I moved closer to Mum's handphone so that she could see me. "I felt like a bird!" Grandmother exclaimed, "I dared to dream, and I finally did the skydive! Promise me you'll always follow your dreams, too."

"Yes, Grandma. I will. You're my hero, my Sky Queen!" I said proudly.

A few days later, my uncle finished editing Grandmother's first 'flight'. He added music to the video of her wearing a white skydiving suit for the first time. Watching the video made my heart race as I saw her put on her skydiving equipment. Once the helmet and goggles were put on, Grandmother stood at the edge of the plane, with the blue sky and green fields far below. My stomach dropped as she jumped fearlessly into the open air!

4 Instead of freezing with fear, Grandmother screamed with joy, letting it all out just as she wanted to do. She did not seem like an old woman at all, leaping into the wind confidently and landing steadily on her feet after her skydive.

5 The following day, during Show and Tell at school, I proudly shared the video with my friends. Everyone was amazed by Grandmother's adventure, and we all felt like we were flying right along with her. Modern technology is really amazing. Everyone got to experience the joy of someone else's adventure!
