Section F: Comprehension (10 marks)
Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Ming could not wait for the school day to end. He and his good friends, Zul and Gopal, had planned to play near the river bank behind the school.

The three boys cleverly created toys out of recyclable materials. They made slingshots out of sticks and rubber bands, and kites out of old newspapers. They also collected old magazines to make paper planes. They played until late evening before they headed home for dinner.

One afternoon, the boys decided to have a mud-sliding contest. They found a slope which was covered with wet mud. Then they got ready to slide down. They slipped down the trail and spread out their arms to keep their balance. Ming sped past his two friends. He was delighted that he was moving fast and was confident that he would be the winner.

Just then, he heard a booming voice calling out to him.

"Ming! You are in trouble. Look at how dirty your brand new shirt is!" shouted his mother.

Ming was caught by surprise. He lost his balance, slipped and fell. His face and body were totally covered with mud and his spectacles had flown off. Zul and Gopal panicked and hurried towards Ming to help him up. It was then that Ming felt a sharp pain in his left leg and could not stand properly. His mother took him to the hospital immediately.

Ming had broken his leg. It had to be in a cast for several weeks. Although Ming was unable to go out to play, he was glad that his good friends visited him daily. They were indeed his true friends.
