Section D: Comprehension (10 x 1 mark)
Read the passage below and answer questions 11 to 19.

Once upon a time, there lived an old man who enjoyed taking long walks every day. One day, his shoes became so worn out that he decided it was time for a new pair. However, the old man did not want just any pair of shoes. He wanted a perfect pair with a perfect fit. So, he spent many days reading books about socks and shoes. He even made a special measuring stick to make sure the new shoes would fit his feet perfectly.

Finally feeling ready, the old man went to his favourite shoe shop near his home. At the shop, he told the shopkeeper excitedly about all the books he had read and the special measuring stick he had made. However, when it was time to measure his feet, he realised he had left his special stick at home. He felt upset because he thought he could not find the perfect shoes without it.

The shopkeeper listened to him and shared a piece of wisdom. He said that sometimes, we do not need books or measuring sticks to find what we need. He suggested that the best way to know if a pair of shoes fit is to try them on and walk around a bit. The old man was surprised but decided to take the shopkeeper's advice and try on a few pairs of shoes.

To his delight, he found a pair that fit better than he imagined. They were comfortable and perfect for his walks.

The old man then realised that he did not need the measuring stick that he had planned to use to find the perfect fit for his shoes anymore. As he left the shop with his new shoes, he thanked the shopkeeper gratefully. From then on, he enjoyed his walks even more. He realised that sometimes, experiencing things firsthand is more helpful than reading all the books in the world. Every time he wore his new shoes, the old man remembered that the simplest solutions are the best.
