Text 2

The extract below is taken from a hiking community's website.

With its scenic landscapes and mystical allure, the newly opened Whispering Pines nature trail looks set to become a popular destination for hikers. Nonetheless, the relatively unknown area is a potential hazard. Hikers are advised to attempt the trail in a cautious and sensible manner, and always travel in groups.

The trail goes through a dense forest which stretches for nearly 30 kilometres. It poses serious risks as many hikers are fond of straying off signposted paths. Difficult terrain and poisonous insects and plants may exist within. Furthermore, its remote location will present challenges in emergency situations. Hikers may not be able to use their phones for navigation and communication in certain parts of the forest as the signal is not strong enough.

Downloaded from SingaKids.com

For each question from 21 to 25, shade your answer (1, 2, 3 or 4) on the Optical Answer Sheet.

(3) Visitors will see four different animals.
(4) The opening of the trail took place recently.

22. "On an isle far away where the pine trees sway." Why did the writer compose this line in Text 1?

(1) to spark the reader's interest in pine trees
(2) to match readers' expectations about the trail
(3) to create an image of the trail in the reader's mind
(4) to warn readers they must travel far to get to the trail

(1) Easy
(2) Tricky
(3) Fascinating

(4) the trail goes through a dense forest which stretches for nearly 30 kilometres

Please note that the passage for Comprehension questions 66 to 75 in Booklet B is on the next page. You may now go on to Booklet B.

Downloaded from SingaKids.com

Refer to the passage below when you answer questions 66 to 75 in Booklet B.

"Boys and girls, the Primary 5 classes would be having an interclass race later this term," Mr Lim, the PE teacher announced to Primary 5A. The twins, Ahmad and Roz, were looking forward to the race. Mr Lim told them they should practise running and building their stamina whenever they had free time.

During recess, the twins decided to have a friendly race round the track. They had called on a few other classmates to join them. As they were getting ready, Bala and his classmates from Primary 5B appeared out of nowhere.

"Ha, practising for the interclass race? You think you can run faster than me?" Bala said with a sneer. Everybody knew Bala was a sore loser, and nobody liked to compete against him. It was evident when he slammed his racket against the floor after being beaten by Ahmad in the badminton match the previous year.

"Not practising. We are just chatting," Ahmad lied.

Nonetheless, Bala waved his hand at Ahmad – gesturing for them to race. Ahmad looked away to ignore him.

Within seconds, the crowd started chanting, "Ahmad! Bala!" The noise was so loud that it could have alerted the teacher on duty then. Empowered, Bala shouted to Ahmad, "I will teach you a lesson in this race for winning the match last year!"

On hearing that, Ahmad took his position and remarked, "I don't think so." Side by side, the two boys were ready to engage. Roz came forward and announced, "Alright, I am going to start the race. You know the drill!" Before the flag-off, Bala stared at Ahmad intently – bent on winning this time.

"On your marks, get set, go!"

Bala took the lead by sprinting with full force. Within seconds, Bala fell behind and was gasping for air. In the last 50 metres, Ahmad and Bala were neck and neck. The crowd was cheering, and the atmosphere was tense. It could be anyone's win.

Bala was desperate to overtake Ahmad. However, in his haste to run faster, Bala leaned forward, lost his balance and tripped over his own foot. Sensing that something was not right, Ahmad turned his head and saw Bala sprawled on the ground.

"Should I continue in order to win? Should I stop and help Bala?" A whirlwind of thoughts ran through Ahmad's mind. Somehow, he knew he had to do the right thing.

"Come, let me help you," Ahmad extended his hand to Bala. Bala looked up at Ahmad in disbelief. He reached out hesitantly to grab Ahmad's hand. He was ashamed as he realised what a fine character Ahmad possessed - giving up his win to help him, all squabbles set aside. After Ahmad had lifted Bala from the ground, the two boys walked side by side to the finish line, knowing deep down what true sportsmanship was.
