"Uncle, wait!" I shouted as Grandpa and I ran to catch the bus. We were late when we reached the bus stop that day because Grandpa had lost his bus card.

The Bus Captain smiled to greet me. As I went up the bus, I saw that it was almost full. The Bus Captain continued driving. He stopped at every stop even though the bus was full. Each time he stopped, he apologised and explained to the people waiting there that he could not take them. He also told them patiently to wait for the next bus.

At one of the traffic lights, I saw the Bus Captain adjusting the air conditioning for the passengers who were squeezing so that they were comfortable. He was friendly and full of smiles. I saw many passengers smiling and thanking him as they alighted.

When we alighted, I told Grandpa that I liked the Bus Captain. Grandpa smiled and said, "No matter what you do, always pass kindness to the people around you." The Bus Captain's kindness made my journey to school a comfortable one.

Last Saturday, Mei went to a nearby food centre with her father. As it was the lunch hour, the food centre was crowded. After waiting for some time, they found two empty seats. Mei decided to have a plate of chicken rice while her father chose a bowl of noodles. Mei's face lit up when she saw her father approaching their table with a tray filled with their food.

Meanwhile, at the next table, an old lady was holding onto her grandson's arm and scolding him. The little boy pulled his arm away and his hand hit the tray that Mei's father was carrying. Crash! To their dismay, everything fell onto the floor. Luckily, the bowl of hot noodles did not land on Mei who was just next to them.

The little boy apologised to Mei and her father while his grandmother looked at them apologetically. She offered to pay for the food but Mei's father politely declined the offer.
