Section C – Comprehension (6m)

Read the following passage. Answer questions 15 to 18.

Kate was eating her late breakfast leisurely as there was no school that day. Her mother was cleaning the living room. She seemed to be expecting some visitors.

The doorbell rang. A while later, Mother rushed into the kitchen and exclaimed, "Kate, I've got something for you!" Still feeling tired, Kate dragged her feet to the living room. Her face lit up immediately when she saw a big box on the sofa. As she walked towards it, there was a little whine coming out of it.

Kate opened the box and her eyes lit up. "It's a puppy! Thank you, Mummy." As she picked up the puppy and kissed it on its nose, it wagged its tail excitedly.

Kate had always wanted a pet and her mother told her she could have it only when she was ready to care for one. Kate was certainly ready! She sprang to her feet and gave the puppy a wonderful welcome bath.

Read the following passage. Answer questions 13 to16.

A rich lady asked an artist to paint a picture of her. A few days later, the artist delivered the finished painting to her house but she was not at home, so he left it with the servant. The next day, the same servant returned the painting to the artist. The rich lady had rejected the painting! Her pet dog could not recognise her in the painting and kept barking at it.

The artist stared at the painting. Then, on the lady's cheeks, he began to spread some peanut butter.

"Please ask your Madam to visit me at the studio," the artist told the servant.

When the rich lady arrived with her dog, the artist carried her pet and walked towards the painting. Instead of barking, the dog started licking it excitedly.

"Look! Your dog does recognise you. You must pay me for my hard work," said the artist. The rich lady was speechless. She paid him, took the painting and left hurriedly with her dog.

One day, Fox fell into a pond and could not get out. As he was waiting for someone to save him , Goat came by. Goat saw Fox and thought that he had gone into the pond to drink water, so she asked Fox if it was sweet.

"This is the sweetest water I've ever tasted," said Fox. He invited Goat to join him. "Jump in and try it. There is more than enough for both of us."

Feeling thirsty and hot, Goat immediately dived into the pond. As soon as Goat got in, Fox jumped onto Goat's back and leapt out of the pond. Goat realised that she had been tricked. She begged Fox to help her out but Fox shook his head.

"Always think before you act," said Fox as he headed for the woods. Poor Goat! She had to be in the pond for a while before someone came to save her.
