Lina and Sarah were best friends in Primary 2. One day, during recess, Lina saw Sarah sitting alone at the canteen table. She looked upset.

Lina went over and asked gently, "Are you okay, Sarah?"

Sarah shook her head and replied softly, "I forgot to bring my lunchbox and did not have any money for food today. I'm feeling hungry."

Without thinking twice, Lina opened her lunchbox and shared half of her noodles with Sarah. "Here, you can eat with me," she said with a smile.

Sarah's face brightened. "Thank you, Lina. You're so kind."

Later that day, Sarah noticed that Lina was struggling with her heavy stack of books. Instead of walking off quickly, Sarah stopped and helped her carry some of the books to the classroom.

Both girls realised that caring for each other made their friendship stronger. True friends showed empathy and helped whenever someone needed it.
