Section E: Comprehension Open-Ended (8 marks)
Read the passage carefully and annotate.

One day, a traveller arrived at a village with nothing but an empty pot. His stomach was growling. He knocked on doors, asking for food. However, the villagers, fearing that they did not have enough, did not give any. He thought of an idea. He went to the village square, filled his pot with water and placed a stone inside. Feeling curious, the villagers gathered around and asked what he was doing.

"I'm making a stone soup," he said cheerfully. "It will be delicious but it just needs more ingredients to bring out the flavour." One villager, convinced by the idea, offered a few carrots. "Perfect!" said the traveller, adding them to the pot.

Another supportive villager brought some potatoes. Soon others followed and gave onions, garlic and a bit of meat. Each person contributed a small ingredient, not thinking much about it. The pot boiled and the soup had a wonderful aroma.

Eventually, the stone was removed and the villagers all shared a hearty and tasty soup filled with a variety of ingredients. They sighed in amazement seeing how something that began with just a stone turned into a feast!

The traveller smiled, knowing he had not only filled their stomachs but also reminded them of the joy of sharing. That evening, the villagers let out cheers and hugged one another, grateful that they could enjoy food together.
