Section E: Comprehension 1 (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Thomas paused to wipe his sweaty brow. He wondered if he and his friends could make it to the top of the town's highest hill before sunrise. After what seemed like ages, they finally reached the summit. As the children paused to catch their breath, they could see everything. Admiring the breathtaking view, they agreed it was worth the early start to the day.

After taking some photos, they spent the entire afternoon exploring the hillside. Although excited, the children always kept close to the river, so they would not get lost. When it started getting dark, they knew it was time to leave.

Halfway down the hill, Thomas tripped and twisted his ankle. He got to his feet but wobbled unsteadily with every step. Knowing night was approaching, he suggested his friends move ahead while he followed behind slowly.

"We won't leave you behind," William said reassuringly.

He found sturdy branches to help Thomas walk more easily. The friends then took turns to support him as he walked. Slowly, they continued on the journey back. It seemed to take forever, but they pressed on together. At last, they reached the foot of the hill, muddy and exhausted.

"We did it," Thomas muttered in disbelief.

"We did," smiled Beatrice triumphantly while panting, "We stuck together - that made the difference."

Section F: Comprehension 2 (10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Hana was immersed in her book. It was the final book of the Magic Wishing Tree series. "I can't wait to find out how the story ends!" she thought excitedly. All of a sudden, a knocking sound broke the silence in her room. Her mother bustled in to say that she was going to the market. She reminded Hana to turn off the stove after ten minutes so that the soup that was boiling would not burn. Distractedly, Hana nodded in response and continued reading as her mother left.

As Hana was nearing the climax of the story, she detected the smell of something burning. That made her frown as she tried to identify it. Recalling her mother's reminder, she came to a sudden realisation: the soup! She sprinted to the kitchen, hoping she was not too late.

She let out a horrified wail at what she saw. The pot of soup was on fire! For a few seconds, Hana stood frozen, unsure of what to do. Then, she spotted two pails beside the kitchen sink and filled them up. Frantically, she hurled water onto the fire, trying desperately to put it out. To extinguish the fire completely, she threw a wet towel over it.

"Finally, the fire is extinguished!" Hana cried. Seeing that it had worked, she let out a deep sigh of relief and collapsed onto the floor, exhausted. She was about to start cleaning up the mess when a familiar voice called out, "Hana, I'm home! I hope you did what I told you to!"

"It's time to face the music," Hana told herself with a sigh.
