Section E: Reading Comprehension (10 marks)
Read the passage carefully and answer the following questions.

Farah stood at the base of the tall climbing wall at her school's adventure camp. Her eyes followed the wall all the way up. It looked even taller than the HDB block she lived in! The thought of climbing the wall made her heart thud loudly in her chest and her knees wobble. She felt butterflies fluttering in her stomach.

"I can't do it," Farah whispered to herself.

Her instructor, Ms. Tan, knelt beside her and smiled gently. "You don't need to be the fastest or go the highest. Just take it one step at a time," she encouraged.

Farah nodded slowly. She had a reason for joining the camp. She had a fear of heights. She wanted to overcome this fear. That was why she was at the camp. However, now that she was here, the wall looked much more frightening than she had imagined.

Taking a deep breath, Farah adjusted her helmet and harness. Her hands felt cold as she grabbed the first handhold. She took her first step. Then another. Her foot slipped, and for a moment, panic rose in her throat. She froze halfway up the wall.

"I can't," she whispered.

Then she remembered Ms. Tan's voice—one step at a time. Also, she remembered the story she had read last month about a girl who overcame her fear of water to learn to swim. If that girl could do it, maybe she could too.

Slowly, Farah tightened her grip and climbed higher. She became more confident as she climbed higher. Soon, she stopped thinking about how far she had to go and focused on the next step. Her classmates began cheering for her name. "Go, Farah! You've got this!" Yani, her best friend, cheered from below, giving her two thumbs up. Yani's voice was the loudest of all.

Finally, with one last push, Farah reached the top. The wind brushed against her face, and the view from above made her gasp. She had done it! A wide smile spread across her face as she looked down.

"Good job, Farah!" Ms. Tan shouted.

Farah beamed and waved proudly. The fear was still there, but it was lesser now—because she had faced it. She knew she would remember this moment for the rest of her life.
