Section E (10 marks)
Comprehension

Read the passage below and answer questions 27 to 31.

My school organised a painting competition. Out of my love for art and being a great artist, I wasted no time in signing up. "The top prize is surely mine," I muttered under my breath.

On the day of the competition, I was seated next to my archenemy, Natalie. "Let's see who the better artist is," I thought silently.

At that moment, Natalie turned and gave me a smirk. "Why, Tom? Are you still thinking about your miserable loss last year?"

Ignoring her, I focussed on laying out my art materials. Other than canvas and rags, we were instructed to bring our own paintbrushes, palettes and paint.

Once the competition began, I painted wholeheartedly. By the time I had added the finishing touch to my masterpiece, I was sure that history would not repeat itself. Curious at how my opponent was doing, I sneaked a peek at Natalie's artwork. To my horror, her canvas was as blank as her face. "Why aren't you painting?" I asked.

"I have forgotten to bring my paintbrushes," she replied.

Having decided to bury the hatchet, I offered her my paintbrushes. Blushing, she took them to complete her artwork. When the competition was over, Natalie returned me my paintbrushes and said, "Thank you! You could have watched me lose but you didn't."

I could not help but smile. The results would be released a week later. However, I already felt like a winner.
